Very Unneighborly Rebels.

trip would be perilous; but there was no other way; so, keeping myself as flat to the ground as possible, I snaked my way back. I had never before crawled myself a large man, but while crawling I thought about the scanty grass and herbage I consumed, and the form loomed up mightily, making a target conspicuous target for the rebel marksmen. However, I reached the lines in safety, filled my cartridge-box and cautiously retraced my way to a small tree about half-way to my recent position; but after drawing the enemy's fire I found at once that I could not stay there and keep a whole hide. Thinking my old oak the best friend I could

The 92d Ohio was organized at Camp Marietta and Gallipolis, O., Sept. 7-17, 1862, to serve three years, and was mustered out June 10, 1865. The first commander was Nelson H. Van Voorhees, who resigned, and was succeeded by Col. Benjamin D. Fearing, who was in command of the regiment when it was mustered out and brevetted a Brigadier-General. The 92d Ohio belonged to Baird's Division of the Fourteenth Corps. Army of the Cumberland, and lost 51 killed and 193 who died of disease, accidents, etc.—Editor National Tribune.

The 6th Ohio was organized in the State at large in October, November and December, 1861, to serve three years. The first recruits were finally organized on July 1, 1862. The first Colonel was Samuel H. Sedgman, who was mustered out July 5, 1862, and succeeded by Robert K. Scott, who was promoted to Brigadier-General, and succeeded by George E. Welles, who was mustered out with the regiment.

Monument to Carelessness.

Employees of the Cincinnati Post office wish ardently that people who have business with the office would be more careful. During the year ended June 30, there were 1,055,837 pieces of misdirected mail handled in the local post office. This vast amount, if piled up would form a most imposing monument to carelessness.

of whisky; finally, when he had come to be a harmless old hobo, achieving the ignominy of being kicked to death by a mule. Curry, originally owning a two-thirds of the Gould and Curran claim, sold out all his holdings for $2,000 and, as a reward, while his partner worked with the Indians, he paid blankets and a bottle of whisky to the dying paupers. Henry Plummer, who located the rich ground around Virginville City, preferred taking gold from men's pockets rather than from the ground, and so came to be "removed" by vigilantes, while the discoverer of the famous Homestake of Dakota was afterwards shot in an attempt to hold up

Work for Hundreds.

At these tables the hundreds of negro women and children pick out the discolored and faulty nuts and allow the better ones to pass on into a galley, which grades the nuts as to size. Through all this machinery the nuts have been polished until they come out looking as clean and polished as pearls. In this condition they are placed in chutes running to the lower floor where they are sacked in burlap bags, which have been stencilled with the names of the several brands, and are ready to be shipped to the cities throughout the country.

which is regarded as fully equal olive oil. The meal or cake after the oil has been pressed out is an excellent food for cattle.

At least $3,000,000 may be added to the value of the peanut crop as a direct benefit to the farmer, who turns his hogs into the fields as soon as the crop is harvested. The nuts left in the ground furnish a sufficient feed for a number of the winter. The rats and backs get down to business when the hogs are hungry, and with their long snouts turn up the ground, finding the nuts where they had been pulled from the roots of the vines. The vines are carefully saved and cured, making ex-

To Club-Raisers: Those faithful Comrades—the

the paper—who raise clubs for The National Tribune, should do their club-raising this month. The offer on this page is so liberal that club-raising is made easy. We will credit them with subscribers sent in and offer them the choice of a number of new club-raisers' premiums later in the year.

The subscription price of The National Tribune is $1 a year, but whoever renews or subscribes during November, 1905, may have one year and two months for the $1. In other words, the remainder of this year---2 months---is free, and the whole of next year is paid by the $1. In addition to this, the subscriber will receive, postpaid, a beautiful picture, suitable for framing, entitled "Our Old Commanders."

Our Old Commanders.

"On Fame's eternal camping ground
Their silent tents are spread,
While Glory guards with solemn 'round
The bivouac of the dead."

Beneath the above title and verse are grouped the portraits of 36 most prominent Union Generals, all of whom have answered the last roll call. The face, or faces, of those who led us in campaign and battle are found in the picture. On a separate sheet a brief history of each General is given. This picture is well worth a frame and a place on the walls of a veteran's home. Size of picture, 12x19 inches. Mailed in a stout tube, postpaid. Presented to each subscriber whose subscription is received in October, 1905.

CONFEDERATE MANUSCRIPTS.

A good deal of attention will be paid to the stories of the other side in The National Tribune. Very entertaining, often, to hear the story of the fellow who was shooting at you.

ADVANCE AND RETREAT.
By John B. Hood, General, C. S. A.

Gen. Hood was regarded as one of the most dangerous fighters in the Confederate army, and wherever he led there was a certainty to be struggles to the last limit of desperation. He has told his story in "Advance, and Retreat" simply and plainly, and it gives a great deal of interesting light upon the operations of the Confederate army. It is a most important contribution to history, and will be very welcome to our readers.
